HARWICH HIGH SCHOOL

A black and white photograph of a double door. The door has a large 'X' design on the lower half and a grid of windows on the upper half. The left window grid shows a building with a chimney and trees, while the right window grid shows a dark interior. The text 'THE JOURNEY OF A THOUSAND MILES BEGINS WITH ONE STEP ' is overlaid on the bottom of the door.

The Field

" . . . I am Father Gomez. My church is in Piedras, a very small place to be sure, but nearest to the farm where Mother Maria Martha and the nuns of her order live and work and where began the legend which has brought such attention, even fame, to our valley and the simple lives we lead here. Like all legends it is part fact, part falsehood, but perhaps the truth which is its core is more compelling than the trappings of imagination with which it has been invested . . . "

GIANT PUFFBALL

The giant Puffball is a type of fungi and a specific form of mushroom. However, as is common to most mushrooms: The puffball has no cap or stem, no gills or pores, no branches or cups. Yet these balls which are nicknamed Smokeballs or Devils Snuffboxes start out in the same way that gill mushrooms do. Like buttons they push above ground and they simply increase in size until they are as round as balloons. The Puffball here is the Giant Puffball which can grow as large as six feet in diameter.
